JON WILSON APPOINTED TO THE SIOPA BOARD

The Society for Industrial and Organisational Psychology ('SIOPA') is pleased to announce the appointment of Jon Wilson to the board. Jon joins the board at a time when the profession is experiencing rapid growth and development.

"Jon is a distinguished and accomplished industry professional with over twenty years of management consulting experience. He is in a position to make an important contribution to SIOPA" said Industrial/Organisational Psychologist and SIOPA President, Justine McGillivray. "As we are developing strong membership and positive engagement in the community, it is a privilege to see an experienced professional like Jon join our board at this time", Justine said.

"I am proud to join a dynamic and innovative industry group, known nationally for its rapid success and the reengagement of the Industrial/Organisational Psychology community. I join the board with the intention of engaging with non-endorsed professionals who widely contribute to the practice of Industrial and Organisational Psychology and progressing the growth and positive impact of the profession on a national basis", said Jon Wilson.

Over the past 20 years, Jon Wilson has made his mark in the management consulting business, having been Director of 3Pillars Asia Pacific since 2008 and Director of Blue Provident since 2006. As a Registered Psychologist, Jon has contributed significantly to the development of contemporary approaches, both nationally and internationally for organisations in areas such as organisational development and strategy implementation via people systems. In addition, Jon is a Graduate member of the Australian Institute of Company Directors, a Certified Management Consultant and a member of the Australian Institute of Management Consultants.
